Mr. Ivan Crittenden
Los Angeles, Calif.

Dear Friend:

At our "Daughters" meeting last Friday, a tribute to Clara was read, and afterward, the members thought it would be nice to send a copy to you. They wanted to sign it, but the paper on which it had been written was cheap notepaper and not suitable. So I was delegated to make a copy, with their names added. That is why their own signatures are not on this copy.

But they want you to know that this tribute expresses their own personal feelings for her.

Sincerely
Alva Wilson

In paying a tribute to our very dear friend and fellow member of La Brea Camp, Daughter Clara Hunter Crittenden, the following immortal lines of Abraham Lincoln seem singularly appropriate to her:

"With malice toward none,
With charity for all
With firmness in the right,"

She lived her all-too-brief three score and four years loved and respected for her kindly, cheerful personality, her matchless courage in suffering, her great and abiding faith as a Letter Day Saint, and for her crowning achievement, along with her good husband, in giving to the world such a fine family.

We shall miss her in our Camp, and in our Lives.
